JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1881.

Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at $7 a Year.

NUMBER 248

There are thirty-seven Ohio men in the Iowa Legislature.

Three persons celebrated Christmas in Chicago by taking themselves out of the world.

If Postmaster General Howe will bring about a reduction of letter postage from three cents to two, as proposed by Mr. James, he will throw a good deal of honor in his administration.

The Atlantic Monthly for January, is a remarkable number. It has articles by Howells, Lathrop, Trowbridge, E. E. Hale, and other distinguished writers. There isn't a weak page in it.

Prof. S. Welis Williams, of Yale College, received a dispatch one evening last week which was sent from the interior of China on the evening before. It traveled 19,000 in twenty-four hours.

The more Guiteau whittles down his insanity plea, the brighter are the chances of his hanging. He admits he is sane now, and that the insane spirit left him in an hour after he shot the President. No "inspiration" can save his neck from the gallows.

When Colonel Riley, of Virginia, was crossing the Atlantic to his post of United States consul, Zanzibar, a little son of Mr. Preston, of England, fell overboard, and Colonel Riley jumped in the ocean and rescued him. Preston died recently, and in his will gave Colonel Riley, $25,000.

The general superintendent of the Chicago & Northwestern railway has issued an order reorganizing the Madison division of that road. That division will hereafter embrace the following lines: Belvidere to Winona, Milwaukee to Montford, the narrow gauge system between Woodman, Lancaster and Galena; and the train service between Harvard and Caladonia. The division will be under the control of C. A. Swineford, superintendent, whose office will be at Baraboo, Wis. as heretofore.

The following item has been traveling the rounds of the press for a month or more, and it is about time to head it off:

Rebecca Bates died recently at Scituate, Massachusetts, aged 83. Miss Bates and her cousin Abbie, were the two girls who, during the war of the revolution, hidden behind the rock, with life and drum sounded the retreat when several boat-loads of British troops, about to make a landing, returned to the main-of-war, believing that a Yankee regiment was in the vicinity. Abbie still lives, aged 80.

If Rebecca died at the age of 83, as all the papers say she did, she was born in 1738, seventeen years after the revolutionary war closed; and Abbie was not born till 1801, just twenty years after the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. It is very evident, then, that the two girls did not hide behind the rock and with life and drum, scare the British navy. It is too bad to spoil a good story, but those are the facts.

The Buffalo Express presumes to say: "Postmaster-General Howe was the champion third-termor. But his State, Wisconsin, sent a solid anti-Grant delegation to Chicago. By this we see how well the Republicans of Wisconsin are represented in Mr. Howe's promotion to the cabinet." There can be no more ridiculous talk than that the appointment of Judge Howe is a blow at the Republicans of Wisconsin. It is true that Howe was a third-termor, but he desired the nomination of General Grant, that the Wisconsin delegation voted for Garfield in the convention at Chicago, but it is not true that the Republicans of the State are misrepresented or rebuked by the appointment of Judge Howe. President Garfield, of his own motion, appointed him one of the three commissioners to the Paris Monetary conference, which was one of the strongest indications that the President had confidence in him.

It was one of Mr. Howells' happiest of happy thoughts that led him, on his tour to Castle Indolence, into the room of the Boston police court. The humorous and pathetic writers on the daily press have drawn on the incidents of police courts to these many years for much of their very best work, and have expended a wealth of ingenuity in constructing all possible scenes of human life. Mr. Howells is keenly analytical in all his writings, but in an article in the Atlantic Monthly for January, under the guise of plain narration of what he saw one morning in the police court, he has revealed more forcibly, perhaps, than in most of his more imposing writings, the singular alertness and truthfulness of his literary analysis. It is the best police court report ever written. It is brimful of wit that tricks one into laughter. It is full of tears and sobs and heartbreaks. It is a lay sermon sure of a hearing. It is the broad sympathetic writing of a man of genius whose philosophy is not at fault, and whose heart pulses for all humanity.

The Gazette desires to commend to the attention of the business men of Janesville and other cities in Wisconsin, the following little history of a manufacturing establishment at Sycamore, Illinois. To be sure, every town and city can not have a Sandwich Manufacturing Company, but nearly every town and city in the State can have something in the line of manufacturers which will do much to make the place substantially prosperous. The following is a brief history of the manufacturing establishment referred to: The Sandwich Manufacturing company is an institution whose success is remarkable and whose management is a model. It is about twelve years ago that the citizens organized the company with a capital of $75,000, which was afterward increased, and in all, the people have put in about $100,000 in cash. Now for the outcome. There is now a capital stock of $250,000 and about $500,000 of assets. On this capital they have never failed to pay a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, and at times the dividend has been 20 and even 33 per cent per annum. In all they have paid out some $300,000 in dividends. The institution has wonderfully enriched and built up the place. Its worst back set was last year, when some 800 of the 1,700 harvesters and binders which they manufactured proved failures in bad grain and were returned them; but their corn shellers, which are the best the world produces, had an unusually large sale and enabled them to pay their regular dividends with the usual promptness. They now send corn shellers to Europe, Asia, South America and to all parts of the United States.

On Saturday there was sent from Washington to the Chicago papers a report that there was a hitch about the re-appointment of Colonel Keyes to the postmaster-generalship at Madison. The postoffice authorities here state that he can not be postmaster and a member of the Legislature at the same time. Before Judge Howe was appointed Attorney General, Congressman Caswell had recommended Keyes for appointment, and the case passed from Postmaster General James to President Arthur. The President had received information that Keyes had been elected to the Legislature and doubting whether a person could hold a federal office and at the same time serve in the Legislature, he delayed to send the nomination to the Senate. It is held by some that the Constitution of this State disqualifies federal office-holders from holding a position in the Legislature, but the President doubtless made a halt in the appointment in consequence of an order issued during General Grant's administration, and which is still in force, declaring that the acceptance by a federal office-holder of an election to a State office would be regarded as equivalent to his resignation of the federal office. This delay virtually takes the matter in the hands of Postmaster General Howe, and there will be considerable interest taken in the result of this contest for the Madison postoffice. It is known that Judge Howe is not friendly to Mr. Keyes, and the question is whether he will carry this animosity with him into the Postmaster General's office, and refuse to endorse the appointment of Mr. Keyes. It is thought by some that the Postmaster General will bury the hatchet and recommend Mr. Keyes providing the objections raised by President Arthur are cleared away. The people of Madison will wait with a good deal of anxiety for the result of the contest between Mr. Keyes and Mr. Frank, and what course Judge Howe will take in the matter.

Liquid Gold.
Dan'l Plank, of Brooklyn, N.Y., Co. Pa., describes it thus: "I rode thirty miles for a bottle of Thomas' Eucalypti Oil, which effected the wonderful cure of a crooked limb in six applications; it proved worth more than gold to me."

A VILLAGE IN ASHES.
EAU CLAIRE, Dec. 23.—Information has been received from Durand, Wis., that all the business portion of the village was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon.

The burnt district includes the Becker House, Tarrant & Darwin's store and every building in the two principal blocks northward and on both sides of the street.

The origin of the fire and the amount of loss cannot be ascertained.

Anti-Fat Rules.
For those people whose embonpoint is a matter of solicitude, whether because it is uncomfortable or unfashionable, the following diet is proposed:

May Eat.—Lean mutton and beef, veal and lamb, soups not thickened, beef tea and broth; poultry, game, fish and eggs; bread in moderation; greens, cress, lettuce, etc.; green peas, cabbage, cauliflower, onions; fresh fruit without sugar.

May Not Eat.—Fat meat, bacon or ham, butter, cream, sugar, potatoes, carrots, parsnips, rice, sago, tapioca, macaroni, custard, pastry and puddings, sweet cakes.

May Drink.—Tea, coffee, cocoa from nibs, with milk, but no sugar; dry wines in moderation; brandy, whiskey and gin in moderation without sugar; light bitter beer, soda and seltzer water.

May Not Drink.—Milk, except sparingly; porter and stout, sweet ales, sweet wines. As a rule, alcoholic liquors should be taken sparingly, and never without food.

In a class of little girls at school, the question was asked, "What is a fort?" "A place to put men in," was the ready reply. "What is a fortress, then?" asked the teacher. This seemed a puzzle, till one of the girls answered, "A place to put women in."

BORDEN, STELLER & Co., Chicago, sell the best and cheapest Car Starter made. With it one can move a freight car.

Cause and Effect.
The main cause of nervousness is indigestion, and that is caused by weakness of the stomach. No one can have sound nerves and good health without using Hop Bitters to strengthen the stomach, purify the blood and keep the liver and kidneys active, to carry off all the poisons and waste matter of the system. SUMMING UP.

The testimony about the re-appointment of Colonel Keyes to the postmaster-generalship at Madison.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The holiday was spent by the counsel in the Guiteau case in preparing for the trial, which will be resumed to-morrow. The testimony is about all in, and the closing argument by counsel will probably begin this week. Mr. Seaville is arranging and classifying the facts, as brought out in the evidence, for presentation to the jury. His summing up will be a careful review of the case, and will probably consume some days in its delivery. His mail still continues very large, and the communications for the prisoner rather increase than decrease. He received yesterday a small box by mail, addressed to Guiteau, which, as he has been accustomed to do with all such packages, he handed it over to the first newspaper man that put in an appearance. The Republican young man was the one on whom the duty devolved of opening the mysterious package.

After throwing it against the brick wall and allowing an hour to elapse over it, the package was opened, and revealed to his morose gaze two innocent looking wooden boxes containing liver pills. The prisoner passed the day quietly, receiving the few visitors that came to the jail and conversing very freely. He seemed to be in good spirits, and spoke about his anxiety to have the trial resumed. Those who have been accustomed to see him say that he has become quite despondent, and shows a great deal of nervousness and meanness. He was not visited by his counsel yesterday, and spent a good part of the time in preparing another address to the public, which will see the light as soon as he can find some one that will give him $100 for it. It is stated that the counsel for the government will press their motion to have the prisoner placed in the dock if he continues his disorderly conduct. They propose to put a stop to his interruptions, if possible, and have the closing days of the trial characterized with more dignity and more decorum.

District Attorney Corkhill yesterday received a rather suggestive device from some ladies in Kansas. It was a small figure of a man, neatly clad in a suit of cloth, and suspended from a little wooden scaffold by the neck. At the top of the scaffold was written the name of the assassin. He also received in the immense which women pour in upon him every day, a small box containing a corn cob, with strings attached, evidently intended to be used as a gag for the unruly prisoner. Every one connected with the trial would no doubt be glad to have the remedy applied or any other that would result in keeping the prisoner quiet. Those well informed say that the case will be given to the jury by the end of this week or early next week. A prominent court official said yesterday that he did not think the jury would be out more than twenty minutes, and would then return a verdict against the prisoner.

THE JEANNETTE.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—The Herald's special says: Our St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs: To arrive at the mouths of the Lena the boats of the shipwrecked Jeannette must have passed through New Siberia and the Island of Fadierskai, which is inhabited only during the summer by Nomads, who arrive at the close of the winter in sledges drawn by dogs. Further on in her course was Lilepette and the Island of Stalbaroi. The distance is about 500 miles from the locality of the shipwreck to the mouth of the Lena. These months are situated in the most dreary and desolate part of the confines of Northern Siberia. The whole coast was last visited and described by Lieut. Pierre Anjou, in 1829.

Precious to that these vast regions, occupying a distance of hundreds of miles along the coast, were explored in 1735 and 1736 by Lieutenant Pronschelschek, and their furthest extremities by Lieut. Dimitri Lapteff in 1739. The place where boat No. 3 landed is situated between the graves of Lieut. Lassinus, who perished in 1735 with thirty-five of his companions, and that of Lieut. Pronschelschek and his wife, who perished in 1736. From this point to Yakutsk the distance is more than a thousand miles, through a desert country completely destitute of population.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

PINE BLUFFS, Ark., Dec. 26.—A terrible tragedy was brought to light yesterday morning on what is known as the White House Plantation, eight miles from this place. It was then discovered that Dr. C. H. Rosenbauer, a prominent and widely known citizen and master of the mansion, had been found assassinated. The doctor was found dead in his library. He had been shot through the window with a shot gun, and one side of his head was torn away. He had fallen forward in his chair, and his brains and blood stained the floor. His writing desk was littered with papers, and the fragments of an unfinished letter in the composition of which he was apparently engaged when stricken down by the assassin. The ghastly and created intense excitement among the servants, and the dwelling was quickly surrounded by a curious crowd. The coroner's inquest failed to unravel the mystery surrounding the murder, but subsequently a negro named Ford, Jones was arrested on suspicion, and the Little Rock police have been notified to arrest Lee Chow, a Chinaman who had made threats against the murdered physician. The doctor was living with one Stella Smith, the wife of Lee Chow, whom he had persuaded to desert her husband. Dr. Rosenbauer had a presentiment of his assassination, and made arrangements with a friend in case of his sudden death, to take charge of his effects.
